

MULTI-FUNCTION PERIPHERAL

Abstract

5 A multi-function peripheral (MFP) includes a built-in video encoder.
Through the video encoder, an image data can be directly displayed on the large-size screen of a TV or computer monitor, and an user can then preview, select and process the image data thereon. The MFP may also include one or more I/O interfaces used to connect other commercially 10 available electronic devices.